

Schools received larger funding increases shrink the count of college-prep courses in proportion to growing number of elective courses

